Deputy Secretary of Agriculture

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Kathleen Merrigan

Kathleen Merrigan is USDA's Deputy Secretary.

Before rejoining USDA, from July 2001 until she was confirmed by the U.S. Senate for this position, Merrigan served as an Assistant Professor and Director of the Agriculture, Food and Environment Program at the Friedman School of Nutrition Science and Policy at Tufts University in Boston. In 2008 she was an expert consultant to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) of the United Nations in Rome.

Merrigan served as Administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service from 1999 to 2001. From 1994 to 1999, she worked as a Senior Analyst for the Henry A. Wallace Institute for Alternative Agriculture, a Washington, DC-based organization which promotes research and education in sustainable agriculture. She was a Senior Staff Member of the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry from 1987 to 1992, where she worked as the Chief Science and Technology Advisor to [then] Chairman Patrick Leahy (D-VT). During that time, she helped develop the Organic Foods Production Act of 1990. She worked on pesticide issues as a Special Assistant to the Chief of Regulatory Affairs for the Texas Department of Agriculture, based in Austin, from 1986 to 1987.

Merrigan served on USDA's National Organic Standards Board from 1995 to 1999 and on the Department's Facilities Reform Commission from 1997 to 1999.

Merrigan holds a Ph.D. degree in environmental planning and policy from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, a Master of Public Affairs degree from the University of Texas, and a B.A. degree from Williams College.

AMS Administrator Rayne Pegg

Rayne Pegg
Administrator of AMS

Rayne Pegg became Administrator of the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) on July 6, 2009. In her position, she has the responsibility of overseeing AMS policies and programs, including the Federal Milk Order Program. AMS administers programs that facilitate the efficient, fair marketing of U.S. agricultural products, including food, fiber, and specialty crops.

Pegg most recently was Deputy Secretary of Legislation and Policy for the California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA). She represented the CDFA before the California legislature, regulating bodies and interested parties on issues that had the potential to affect the Department's programs. "Rayne's background makes her the ideal person to further the development of programs to ensure efficient, fair marketing of U.S. agricultural products as we work to meet the needs of consumers and industries and provide a safe, sustainable food supply for all Americans," USDA Secretary Tom Vilsack said.

In June 2004, Pegg joined the California Farm Bureau Federation's National Affairs and Research Division as director of international trade and plant health. She continued the Farm Bureau's strong emphasis on trade issues facing the nation's top farm exporting state and was also responsible for plant health/agricultural chemical matters and horticultural crops.

Prior to joining the Farm Bureau, Pegg worked for three years with the Agricultural Council of California where she served as director of governmental relations. In her tenure with the Council, which represents agricultural cooperatives, she handled a variety of issues including labor, taxation and environmental issues before the California legislature. Prior to joining the Council, she worked on communications and business development with an Oregon firm.

Pegg is a graduate of the College of Notre Dame of Maryland.

The Agriculture Appropriations Act for 2010

President Obama recently signed the Agriculture Appropriations Act for fiscal year (FY) 2010. This Act provides funding for most of USDA's programs.

Highlights of the bill include:

Assistance for dairy producers: The bill appropriated $350 million of which $60 million is provided for purchases of cheese and other dairy products and $290 million is provided to the Secretary of Agriculture to assist dairy producers.

Increased investment in rural communities to create wealth: With the funding provided for 2010, USDA will continue to provide historic support for Rural America's diverse needs for community infrastructure, business and industry, and decent housing. These resources will be utilized in a strong and collaborative regional planning process that will help focus USDA initiatives on renewable energy, broadband infrastructure, and local and regional foods systems, all of which will help rural communities thrive in the future.

Strengthened Conservation Programs: The 2010 appropriations act continues to provide historic levels of funding for conservation. This continued support will help producers achieve their conservation and farm operation objectives.

Enhanced ability to support food security policies internationally: During FY 2010, USDA will enhance the global food security initiative and improve the health and nutritional status of millions of people in developing countries. This will be achieved through international food assistance programs, research and technical assistance, training activities that promote sustainable agricultural systems, and participation in reconstruction and stabilization efforts in food insecure countries. In addition, USDA will continue on-going activities related to biotechnology and fostering the adoption of science and rules-based international trading and regulatory systems. This will increase confidence in the food supply and will support the creation of long-term markets and trading opportunities for U.S. agriculture.

Increased access to safe and nutritious food: For 2010, Congress provided the funds necessary to meet the demand for nutrition assistance programs, and to upgrade programs to promote healthier diets. USDA also received additional funds to support science-based work to ensure consumers have an abundant selection of safe meat, poultry and egg products, produced by a safe and secure agricultural production system. USDA will continue efforts to protect America's animal and plant resources from invasive pests and diseases, which ensures the continued preeminence of agriculture as the foundation of America's prosperity.

Cheese and Butter Prices Continue to Increase

Prices for cheddar cheese on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange (CME) increased from mid-October to mid-November with the barrel price up 2¢ and the block price up 15¼¢. The butter price on the CME was up 22½¢.

As shown in the graph below, the CME block price rose to this year's high of $1.58¼ per pound on November 16, up 15¼¢ from October 20. The barrel price also rose to this year's high of $1.52½ in early November, but then fell and rebounded to $1.44¼ per pound, up 2¢ in that time frame. Barrel and block prices, however, were about 25¢ and 15¢ below year-earlier levels, respectively.

The CME butter price stabilized at this year's high of $1.52½ per pound, up 22½¢ from October 20, after a month-long rally that started in mid-October. The year-earlier level for the CME butter was $1.63½ per pound, about 11¢ above the current level.

Nonfat dry milk prices on the CME on November 16 were $1.40 per pound for Extra Grade and $1.38 per pound for Grade A, up 14¢ and 6½¢, respectively, from October 20. The Extra Grade and Grade A prices are above year-earlier levels by more than 38¢.

The October Federal order Class III price was $12.82 per cwt., up 71¢ from September, but $4.24 below October 2008. The CME Class III futures prices for 2010 continue to trend upwards and range from $14.60 to $15.70 per cwt.
